

W. P. WALTON.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,

JAMES B. MCCREARY.

AFTER a three days and nights' session Congressman Dickerson was re-nominated in the 6th district, on the 33rd ballot. The candidates besides him were Messrs. Hallam, Berry and Applegate. The latter was dropped on the 30th ballot and the 31st stood, 323 votes for each of the three other candidates. A number of ballots were taken with the same result, when Dickerson's name was withdrawn. It required 49 votes to nominate and Berry and Hallam both got 43 on the next ballot. After a recess, and finding he could not win himself, Hallam's forces brought out Dickerson again and he was nominated by a good majority. Berry was the strongest single man before the convention and would have been nominated but for the combination of Dickerson and Hallam. There was a good deal of ill-feeling engendered of course and if this kind of business keeps up, the 6th district, which has been so reliably democratic, will become a debatable ground.

The Junction City meeting of the democratic executive committee of the 11th district, resulted in the unanimous nomination of E. J. Howard, of Middleboro, for Congress. Owing to the shortness of the time intervening between now and the election and the extent of territory composing the district, he will not be able to see the voters in person, but the committee recommends him as a sound democrat and a man that is right upon all the questions now dividing the parties. We appeal to you, says the committee, to go to the polls on Nov. 4 and cast your vote for him, and thereby you will vote against the iniquities of the Force bill and the McKinley bill.

Justice is sometimes meted out with a rapidity that should always characterize it. Indiana furnishes an example that other States would do well to emulate. Friday night Ernest Harris robbed a New Albany man. He was arrested the same night and taken to Jeffersonville. The grand jury being in session he was at once indicted and his trial had. By 10:30 a. m. a sentence of 4 years had been passed on him and at 11 he was in the penitentiary and had donned the stripes. That's the way to make crime odious.

The republicans of the 9th district tried to get in their work on the Farmers' Alliance by meeting before breakfast on the day that body was to assemble at Vanceburg, and nominating a candidate which they called "the nominee of the Alliance for Congress." But the farmers are not all fools by a jugful and when they met later in the day, they denounced and repudiated the nomination and intimated to the republican takers that they could get along without their dictation or assistance.

O. O. S., the Courier-Journal's well-known Washington correspondent, has been taking a tour of Indiana to see how the political land lays and after careful investigation he thinks that the democrats will carry the State on the 4th. The democratic State ticket is almost sure of election while we will get 8 and perhaps 9 congressmen out of the 13. To do this, however, earnest and persistent effort will have to be put forth till the last hour.

The recount of the votes in the Covington election gives Thomas, the republican candidate, a majority of 116 for mayor. The vote was by the Australian plan, which the Commonwealth has so long claimed would produce wonders for good. The old fashioned viva voce is good enough for us. The secret ballot is a delusion and a snare. A man too cowardly to let the world know how he votes is unworthy of the right of suffrage.

JOHN S. WISE says that Old Virginia will give a democratic majority this year anywhere from 30,000 to 60,000. The Force bill, the seating of the negro Langston and the numerous other mistakes of the republicans in Congress have made the State as near solidly democratic as she can get. He thinks it a good time for republicans like himself to go a fishing and remain till his party learns some sense.

JUDGE RUSSELL, of Lebanon, is not appreciated in the 4th district. He only got 800 votes in a total of 8,500 and carrying Marion alone by a small majority. The judge ought to have known better than to have subjected himself to such a test of his standing and popularity.

Some time ago a fellow from Indianapolis was around offering a wonderful Webster's dictionary for an ad. A good many of our contemporaries bit at the bait and we should like to know if they were caught. Don't all speak at once.

THERE is another scandal leaking out in Secretary Noble's department. It is in the general land office this time and the prospects are that Commissioner Groff will soon be asked to step down and out. A nice kettle of fish, to be sure.

THERE died at Moundsville, W. Va., last week, a man who deserves more than a passing mention. His name was Charles Brandon and no man ever obeyed more fully the injunction to increase and multiply than he. He was thrice married. His first wife died early in the action, after giving birth to two children. After a reasonable season of mourning, Mr. Brandon married again and his second wife, after presenting him with 18 sons and daughters, went hence to her reward. Mr. Brandon was now past three score and ten, but feeling about as young as he used to be, he laid siege to the heart of a maiden of sweet sixteen, and although he was 75, she gracefully yielded and became his wife. She also went into the infantry industry and when, last of all, the old man died at 96, she had 15 children to show for her work. Of the 35 children, thus accounted for, 17 served in the Union army and are now all drawing pensions, no doubt, like all good patriots should.

A CAREFUL survey of the congressional chances convinces the New York Herald that the democratic majority in the next House will be 18 at the lowest calculation. It does seem that after the disgraceful record made by the party in power during the last session of Congress, there should be no difficulty in the democrats carrying the next House, but the odds are mighty wary and will use boodle and every other fraudulent means to thwart the will of the people. Every democrat should see to it that his vote is cast for honesty and good government at the approaching election.

Assassination by Lightning Flash.

Saturday night about 9 o'clock a fearful storm was raging at Alpine, Tex. Samuel Taylor was seated at a table playing cards with three others. Suddenly there was a lightning flash, a loud report, and Taylor, gasping and bleeding, fell from his chair. The night operator uttered a cry of pain, and he, too, fell. It was found that Taylor was dead, he having received fifteen backshots under the left arm. The operator was also badly wounded. Five shots had entered the small of his back. A Mexican had also one of the bullets in his shoulder. The assassin fired from a window, and both Taylor and the operator are supposed to have been emptied at once.

Two years ago Taylor killed Passenger Conductor Server at Valentine, on the Southern Pacific. The killing created the wildest excitement among the railroad men, as Server was very popular among trainmen throughout the state. At the time of the killing Taylor's right eye was shot out. About eighteen months ago he was shot at through a window with a Winchester rifle in the Haymakers' saloon at Galveston, Tex., and barely escaped death. No arrests have thus far been made, and the murderer is unknown. It is presumed that some friend of Server took this method of avenging his death. The operator's wounds are considered fatal. The Mexican will also die. —Cor. St. Louis Republic.

A Huge Fountain of Oil.

A forty quart shot was thrown into the Gibson well at Wildwood recently with dire results. This well, owned by the Bridgewater Gas company, has recently changed into a gusher and was shot to open up the oil product. The output since the agitation is estimated at thirty-five barrels an hour, fifteen of which is a total loss. On approaching the well the oil descends in a shower and every tree, bush and shrub within a radius of 100 yards is covered with a coating of oil. The greater part of the fluid, however, is thrown into the field, whence it runs in a small rivulet to the creek below, and can be traced as far as the Allegheny river. —Cor. Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Painted Shirt Fronts.

The latest reliable fashion news from Paris notifies us that hand painted dress shirts are to be the exceptionally elegant thing for the coming season. These delicious original devices of fashion are to be decorated in designs appropriate to the wearer's tastes or practices.

Thus the yachtsman in full dress will display upon his manly bosom a water color drawing of a regatta or the portrait of his favorite craft; the devotee of dogs will have his front elevation embellished with canine designs instead of diamond studs; the horseman will wear horse races or stable scenes on his starched linen, and in a similar style each individual hobby, fad or characteristic indulgence of the man of fashion may, at his pleasure, mirror itself to the world as a legitimate part of his outfit. —Philadelphia Record.

No Smallpox in Ireland.

Not a single death from smallpox was registered in Ireland last year. From this scourge, at all events, "the distressed country" appears to be gradually freeing itself. Over the last ten years the average annual number of deaths was 130, but this average is due to the more serious state of things prevailing in the early stages of the decade. Since 1883 there has only been one year in which the number of deaths from smallpox was as high as fourteen. That was in 1887. In 1885 there were but four deaths from smallpox registered in Ireland; in 1886, two; in 1884 there was only one; in 1883 there were three, and, as above stated, in 1889 there was not one. —London News.

Danger from Electric Fans.

An accident has just occurred in Georgia which shows the necessity of the guard which is now generally fixed over the ventilating fans worked by electric motors. The manager of the engineering department of an electric light works had been superintending the putting in of a new exhaust fan, and was watching its first trial. As he was feeling the shaft to see if the journals were hot the suction drew his hand in, and in an instant it was cut off between the wrist and the elbow. The fan was revolving at the rate of 1,000 revolutions a minute, and it is said that the arm was cut off as clean as if it had been done by a knife. —Detroit News.

Preparing for Winter.

A real estate dealer who missed a number of signs he had planted in the northeastern part of the city took a scout among the inhabitants, and in one back yard he found no less than twenty different "For Sale" signs of various bearing his own, "Apply to —." When he undertook to recover his property, however, a Polish woman set a dog on him and ran him off, accompanied by an exclamation which seemed to interpret: "If my husband was only here he'd teach you better than to come around trying to steal the fire wood we've laid up for the winter!" —Detroit Free Press.

Something New to Compete For.

Dink Melvin, a veteran fisherman on the waters adjacent to Albany, is considered the most expert bateau padder in this section. He offers to wager $100 that in the swiftest current he can paddle a boat eighteen inches wide between two posts nineteen inches apart. —Cor. Atlanta Constitution.
